Roles of Women and Youth in Water Security and SDGs

MONDAY, 11 DECEMBER 2017, 15:30 - 17:00

25 years after the Rio-Dublin Principles for IWRM have been adopted at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development (UNCED, 1992) in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, there is still limited progress in translating the principles of inclusive and participatory water governance into effective action on the ground. At the same time, hundreds of millions of dollars invested in physical infrastructure are effectively wasted because provisions do not reach the intended beneficiaries and/or are not adequately maintained.

Objectives of this session are to bring to the fore the role of women and youth in sustainable water use and governance, to make steps forward in cooperation on inclusive water governance and gender sensitive approaches in the region and to prepare key messages as input to the 8th World Water Forum, the outcome document of the High-Level Panel on Water and the upcoming Water for Sustainable Development Decade.
